MEET KRISTI SOTO

Kristi grew up in a home her parents built, attached to the family business—an auto body shop in Pasadena. Growing up, Kristi's dad would always take the time to show her how to use tools she was curious about, and help her craft projects. Instead of the toy store, Kristi's parents would take her to Hobby Lobby.

Watching her parents work 12-14 hours every day showed Kristi the value in working hard to earn money. One of her first big metal projects was when she was only 8 years old, sanding down an entire truck to the bare metal in return for a lump sum of money to spend as she wished. With her dad's encouragement to work hard and earn money, it felt amazing to accomplish something so big, especially at such a young age.

Kristi has always been fascinated by what can be done with metal. Her grandma taught her at a young age to crochet, and she's found an inspiring industry that combines the two in an inspiring artform: Silversmithing.

Today Kristi owns a jewelry design business and run her own metal shop, hammering out the smallest pieces of metal to build jewelry. It's not just her job, but a passion in her life she has honed and perfected along the way.

THE STUDIO

Mauve Moon Studio - Houston, Texas

Mauve Moon Studio is a one-woman operation. Every lift of the hammer or stroke of the saw is made by Kristi—as well as the designs, sales, and everything that comes with running a small business.

Mauve Moon Studio uses silversmithing to create unique designs with precious stones and gems, selling items online and at local art markets. Kristi also hosts private workshops by request.

Many of her clients request completely custom designs. Kristi specializes in nature and geometry-inspired designs created with 100% sterling silver. She has an infinite love for gems and minerals and finds it fascinating the earth we walk on produces such beauty not only where we can see it, but below our feet.
